

RAY MIDDLETON

Ray Middleton is not one of the household names of racewalking outside his native England but his career was, nevertheless, outstanding. Spanning the 1960s and extending into the 1970s, he won 2 golds, 8 silvers and 4 bronze medals in British Championships and represented England internationally on 11 occasions, with career highlights including silvers at the 1963 Lugano Cup and the 1966 Commonwealth Games.

Born 9th September 1936 in London, the Belgrave Harrier athlete had started his career as a schoolboy high jumper and half miler but a switch to race walking in his twenties proved a fateful move.

Almost as an aside, the RWA website lists his RWA Best Performance for the 8 Hour standard, done in 1974. I was recently sent a copy of the Athletics Weekly report on that performance by Rob Elliot of the Sarnia Walkers Club on Guernsey. Rob, like me, is a historian of the sport and I recommend his fine website <http://sarnia.wordpress.com/> for the many historical easter eggs available therein.

This 1974 8 Hour track event was described by the Athletics Weekly correspondent as the walking highlight of the year. The venue was the New River Sports Centre, White Hart Lane, N22, and the start time was set at 9:30AM on Sunday 29 September 1974. The event was sponsored by Accolade and featured 16 invited competitors. Middleton, who had been a convincing winner in that year's London to Brighton classic, was a clear favourite and Harold Whitlock's 1935 records looked eminently beatable. Middleton was at that time 38 years of age, employed as a postal worker and nearing the end of his illustrious career.

Excerpts from the Athletics Weekly report (October 12, 1974) follow:

Five World Bests for Ray

In a race which produced stirring performances in plenty, constant fluctuations in fortune, courage, endurance and fortitude, the most satisfying aspect of the Accolade 8 Hours track walk was the involvement of everyone present. Organiser Bill Sutherland did a fantastic job and was rewarded with a record breaking day in all ways...everyone had a great day, but no one more than Ray Middleton.

The epitome of the walker's walker, Ray had his finest race in a career already lasting almost two decades in the sport. Never experiencing a rough period, Ray says he was lifted by the encouragement and excitement of the crowds as he got amongst the records held by Harold Whitlock since 1935. Harold was there, very happy indeed to present the very cup he had received 39 years ago to Ray, who in turn was proud to have beaten the very fine records set by a man who has been an inspiration to all British walkers for the past four decades.

From the start, Ray made it clear he meant business by setting the pace, tracked by John Lees and Dave Boxall, the latter dropping away after 5 miles or so.

10 km splits: Middleton 53:04, Lees 53:05, Boxall 53:39, Lawton 54:32, Selby 55:02, Markham 55:27, Fogg 55:50, Michell 55:53, Holmes and Harrison 55:55, Harding 56:17, Young and Dowling 56:18, Casey 58:23, Vos 58:36, Moulinet 58:37.

John Lees then took over and proceeded to blaze the trail in no uncertain manner before being overhauled by Middleton at 26 miles. The 20 Mile splits were as follows 20 mile splits: Lees 2:50:59, Middleton 2:53:02, Selby 2:56:13, Lawton 2:56:17, Fogg 2:58:55, Harding 3:00:37, Markham 3:01:23, Boxall 3:02:37, Harrison 3:03:05, Holmes 3:03:10, Moulinet 3:03:17, Michel 3:04:29, Young 3:05:27, Dowling 3:15:30, Vos 3:16:23, Casey 3:18:23.

Ray's judgement and experience now paid off as Lees felt his great effort. Charley Fogg, walking a stormer, came into third with Harding, looking better and better, close behind.

50 km splits: Middleton 4:34:04, Lees 4:36:30 (personal best!), Fogg 4:39:26, Selby 4:40:15, Moulinet 4:44:50, Selby 4:47:51, Holmes 4:50:01, Michel 4:50:44, Lawton 4:51:38, Markham 4:52:02, Harrison 4:53:48, Boxham 4:55:52, Young 4:57:17.

With the records at his mercy, Ray went on relentlessly. Moulinet had roared through to such effect that he had virtually caught Lees at 40M and was to have a battle royal with John and Ken Harding for second as the latter closed up. First Lees recovered and dropped his rivals but finally it was super-vet Harding who finished strongest off all. Colin Young now was making inroads after having to make several pit stops early on.

40M: Middleton 5:56:29, Lees 6:04:04, Moulinet 6:04:22, Harding 6:04:49, Selby 6:13:25, Fogg 6:14:10, Michel 6:19:52, Young 6:23:07, Holmes 6:23:43, Boxall 6:23:57, Harrison 6:24:05

And so to the last gruelling miles. Ray swept on inspired, Ken never faltered, finally John Lees and Alain Moulinet slowed and Charley Fogg went berserk in a final effort and thought he had nailed third, only to discover he had to find another lap to get Lees. Closing strongly, Colin Young overtook Michell despite the latter's last minute burst.

The generally cold weather with a strong breeze was responsible for the many short pit stops taken by several walkers, while some ultra fast laps were put in when certain walkers heard their chosen favourite records played over the loud speaker system! Organiser Bill Sutherland had "The Sun Won't Shine Any More" played just before the finish – the signal for a torrential downpour. All in all, a memorable day for everyone who was present.

50 Mile splits for the top contenders: Middleton 7:31:06 Harding 7:40:45; Lees 7:42:33, Moulinet 7:46:44, Fogg 7:48:13, Selby 7:49:55, Young 7:57:17

The winner Middleton finished the gruelling test in possession of no fewer than five world best performances:

- 40 miles in 5:56:29
- 40M 581Y (64.905 km) in 6 hours
- 46M 1263Y (75.187 km) in 7 hours
- 50 miles in 7:31:06
- 53M 352Y (85.618 km) in 8 hours

In fact, Whitlock's record of 51M 1042Y had been bettered by the first 3 finishers and equalled by the fourth place getter.

One record breaker, Harold Whitlock (1935), congratulates another, Ray Middleton (1974).

What did the future hold for Middleton at that stage: "I will make one last bid for the Lugano Cup place in 1975. I might go for the 100 miles in the same year. I will not walk at international level after 1976 but I will still walk at club level."

History shows that he failed in his final attempt for an 8th Lugano vest but his 7 remains amongst the most prolific of all time.

The following amusing article about Ray was published in the Daily Mirror on Wednesday 16 September 1970

Britain's postmen show that they have the fastest feet in the West

The fastest postman in Europe is Ray Middleton. He has had his eye on the title for years. Ray is so keen on walking that he regards his daily postal round as no more than a stroll.

Yesterday in London, 35-year-old Ray led a team of British postmen (see photo below) to victory in the Postman's Walk – postal code for the European Postal Road Walking Championship.

They took on the cream of postmen from thirteen other countries. For nine and a quarter miles, they walked around the Crystal Palace circuit in full uniform.

Ray took his win modestly. He examined his feet for sores and went home to Hendon.

His daughter Lesley was much more excited. She was seven yesterday and Daddy's win was as thrilling as a birthday parcel.
